

1. INTRODUCTION

Thank you for purchasing our SGW software. As you know already SGW stands for Self Growing Websites. It is a concept we came up with and developed our software based on it.

The main idea of SGW is to update (grow) your websites with fresh original targeted content on a regular basis in a very unique human way. The best thing is that this process can be completely randomized and automated.

SGW contains a system of Input and Output modules, which closely interact with each other, processing and adding all kinds of content to your website based on very advanced settings for each particular module.

Also the advantage of SGW, not offered in any other similar product is that each module can be easily turned on or turned off, depending on your website's requirements. You will also be able to install additional modules at a later time.
